This game looked like a great survival game, but it isn't the controls are clunky everything is laggy and it just has many errors.. I played for around 20 minutes and here what I have to say (will play more)

Its pretty good for a small indie game with decent graphics but heres what I dislike about it though enemies attack to fast dealing ~8dmg per hit and 1 hit every .5-7 seconds and it normally takes about 4-5 hits to take one down making it pretty difficult

when I go against new enemys I want to see something very diffrents so heres what Im thinking

-Make it with each new enemy (ex zombies, wolfs, ect.) make it do something that would catch you off guard.

-add background music or something because it gets pretty boring after a few min of just listening making me want to take out my phone to listen to some music while playing or watch youtube while playing

-make it where you "level up" after you kill enemys, keep in mind that this is a small game so you dont need to make it have levels 1-50 or something I think something simple like 5 stat bars

Strength

Energy

(you get what I mean) and maybe make it multiplayer. It can be troublesome to make it multiplayer because of servers and all that but I think that will get the game some more traction but it will also mean you will need to update it more and more matinance. I think you should also add in a building prospect to make it Rust or The Forset-like and where there will be pvp but instead of tons of people on the same server but because you have a smaller map make it have 8-10 people per multiplayer game. Its a small game and im planning on playing it some more after Im done with this review but its pretty good for a 1$ game actually I half-expected for it to be one of those cheep games made to be bad.. Really enjoyed it!! It's a good game, but I couldn't complete it after 5 or so tries; water was always an issue and I would dehydrate on my way up the mountain. Over all a great development though!. Not a very good game. Very laggy, even on low settings. Controls are clunky and annoying. I would not recommend.
